

Sinclair Broadcasting's decision to air an anti-Kerry documentary, "Stolen Honor: Wounds That Never Heal", during prime-time hours next week, days before the election, is an unfair idea. It serves special interest and big corporations whereas Sinclair needs to focus on the public. Sinclair uses the public airwaves free of charge, and is obligated by law to serve the public interest. Whether we are Democrat, Republican, Independent, etc. we the American people deserve fair, balanced coverage of a multitude of perceptions. Not one-sided propaganda. Please do not allow them to air this program. And if you must, or cannot stop them, then also air the independent film, "Going Upriver", which shows another perspective of John Kerry. This way, the people will see two different representations of John Kerry and can then make their own decisions on his character--though, honestly, it'd be better to simply not air "Stolen Honor". Thank you.
